THE SIMPLE LIFE

Those wearying of the most popular Caribbean islands, thronging with tourists and high-rise hotels, will be pleased to hear about the opening of Belle Mont Farm. It can be found on Kittitian Hill in St Kitts, twinned with the equally charming Nevis, and its aim is "to create a community where guests can immerse themselves in the vibrant beauty of the West Indies (and) enjoy fresh food foraged from the land and sea". Within the 400 acres of organic farmland, stretching from the slopes of Mount Liamuiga down to the beach, choose from one-bedroom guesthouses and larger farmhouses with a big central pavilion, private 100-foot infinity pool and space for up to 16 guests. Three other places to stay on Kittitian Hill – The Village, Yaya Groves and The Golden Lemon – are set to open in 2015. kittitianhill.com
