Miuccia's Museum Opens

The Fondazione Prada — the art branch of the legendary fashion house — opened the doors to its first permanent exhibition space in Milan earlier this month. Housed in a converted 1910s distillery reimaged by the Dutch architect Rem Koolhaas, the 10-building complex currently features the work of the American artist Robert Gober, the cheeky Surrealist best known for manipulating everyday objects: warped bathroom sinks without faucets or drains, disembodied wax-colored legs with real hair. A selection of Gober's new and old works occupies the top three floors of the "Haunted House," now clad in 24-karat gold leaf. fondazioneprada.org — JEFF OLOIZIA

Rooms With Something Special

An edible golf course on St. Kitts
Opened in December with wooden guest houses set on 400 acres, Belle Mont Farm is introducing the world's first pick-as-you-play golf course, designed by the Welsh golfer Ian Woosnam and dotted with tropical fruit trees. Signs indicate what's ripe for snacking; caddies, clued in to each season's harvest, provide directions to the best bounty. bellemontfarm.com

Kickboxing classes in Phuket

To complement its sleek villas overlooking the Andaman Sea — as well as the 30 elevated suites with private infinity pools coming later this year — Thailand's Sri Panwa Phuket has a bamboo-lined kickboxing ring, with a three-day course taught by a local Muay Thai champion. sripanwa.com

Disco skating rink in Miami Beach

More than two decades after relaunching the Delano, Ian Schrager has returned with the new Miami Beach Edition and its Studio 54-inspired nightclub, which houses a 2,000-square-foot ice-skating rink with floor-to-ceiling windows facing Collins Avenue. editionhotels.com

New-release films in London

Some hotels screen classic movies, but the Ham Yard — which also boasts a bowling alley — has gone a step further by teaming up with the Curzon Cinemas chain to show releases while they're still in theaters. The 190-seat, retro-mod space also hosts public events, from music and comedy nights to Edinburgh Fringe previews. firmdalehotels.com — CHRISTINE AJUDUA
